Expert To Discuss Smog Dangers To Monterey County

Supervisor Tom Hudson has arranged a luncheon meeting tomorrow noon at Mark Thomas Inn, Monterey, for officials of the five peninsula cities to hear Benjamin Linsky, authority on smog, and other officials of the Bay Area Air Pollution District speak on the threat of smog in Monterey County.

Mr. Linsky will point out that smog is not a respecter of rural areas because of the vagaries of wind currents which carry it from industrial locations.

He will also point out the danger of smog to leaf vegetable and other crops. This is an aspect of the smog danger that the Pine Cone emphasized six years ago when the Carmel Planning Commission attempted to stimulate the county board of supervisors to consider smog control ordinances before industry invaded the county.

Several months ago Monterey County Industrial Committee requested the county planning commission to make a smog survey and consider possible controls.

City Employees Get Well Earned Raise, Pay Still Under Par

The Carmel City Council adopted a new salary schedule last night which will give the city employees a 10 percent raise. Increased cost to the city, if plan B is adopted, will be $20,080.28, including city's increased contribution to the retirement fund. Plan B would change the fifth step on the salary schedule from a merit to a seniority step. If plan A is adopted, increased cost will be $17,898.99. The probability is that plan B will be put into effect by the council when it meets Wednesday night.

Total city payroll will then be: $165,789.09.

Councilman John Chitwood pointed out that this raise will not bring city salaries up to those of comparable cities, and that the police force will still be working a 44 hour week. City Clerk Larry Rose says the raise can be managed in the budget without jacking up the tax rate.

Council agreed to the county's request for a raise of the combined charge to the Peninsula cities for pound service, from $12,000 to $15,000 per year, but instructed City Clerk Larry Rose to inform the other cities that Carmel's share must be reduced since each city pays according to population. Census has been taken since the agreement was made last year. Carmel's population was assumed to be 5500; census showed it to be 4399. This should cut Carmel's pound bill by $331 in spite of the additional charge by the county.

The council accepted a revised insurance plan for the city property and equipment. Fourteen policies have been combined into three, and the city has more coverage at a five percent rate decrease. The blanket policy on all buildings provides complete replacement.

City Attorney John Morse read a new ordinance prohibiting storage, displaying for sale signs, repairing or greasing vehicles on the streets.

New Recreation Program Assures Play For Everyone

Carmel's summer recreation program is in full swing, with swimming at the high school pool the major attraction. Over 540 kids signed up for swimming classes, or just swimming, the first day last week. Any day there were 250 kids in the pool with seven instructors and life guards riding herd. The school bus circles the town and Mesa twice each morning picking up one batch of swimmers, and distributing another. Everybody is having a whale of a time.

Summer Adult School In Arts And Crafts Starts On Monday

The Adult School summer program will officially begin on Monday. As in previous summers these classes will be open to both adults and children unless otherwise specified, and there will be no tuition charged.

A number of art classes are being offered. Sketching and painting with Mr. Charles Lee as instructor will meet on Monday and Wednesday evenings at 7:00 o'clock in Room 14 at the High School. He will also teach a course in color design on Tuesdays and Thursdays at the same time and in the same room. Mrs. Helen Snyder is teaching driftwood sculpture on Mondays at 7:00 o'clock, and Wednesdays at 1:00 o'clock in the high school shop. Charcoal portraiture is being taught by Kay Rodgers on Monday and Wednesday evenings at 7:30 o'clock in Room 13 at Sunset School.

Pottery class, with Robert Lynn as instructor, will meet Monday through Thursday nights at 7:00 o'clock in Sunset Shop. Also looms are available for weaving with Mrs. Margaret Gerber in Sunset Cafeteria on Wednesday evening at 7:00 o'clock.

Sewing is being taught by Mrs. Clotilda Riola on Monday and Wednesday nights at 7:00 o'clock. Mrs. Dickinson teaches one class in sewing on Tuesday morning at 9:00 and on Thursday afternoon at 1:00. These classes are held in Room 11 at the high school.

Physical conditioning class for women, with Mrs. Hilda Moelang as teacher, meets on Monday nights at 7:30 o'clock in the high school gymnasium.

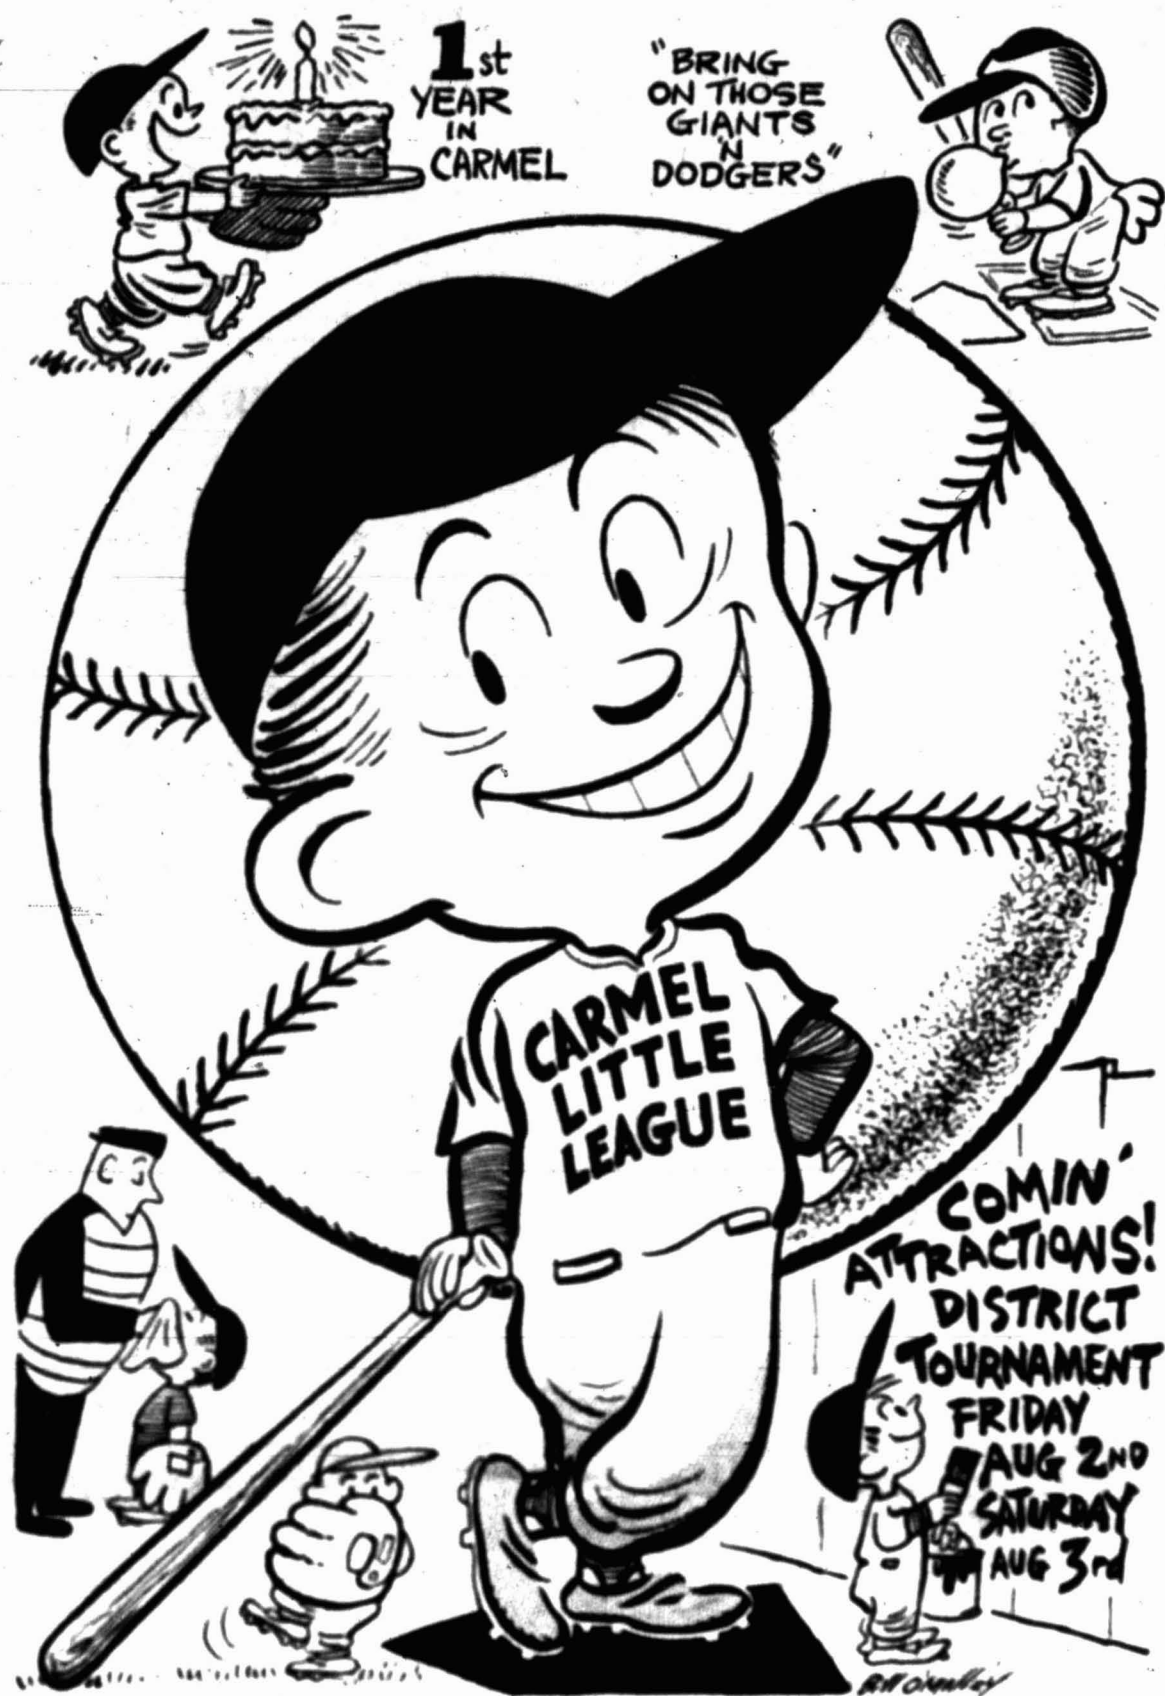

Machine woodworking under the direction of Howard Byrne meets on Wednesday and Thursday nights at 7:00 in the high school shop.

Bill Powell Wins Appointment To Air Force Academy

The new Air Force Academy in Denver, Colorado, has accepted William D. Powell, who is now stationed at Parks Air Force Base in California. From a total of fifty four men at Parks Air Force Base, only four men were accepted. The prerequisites for entrance to the Academy limit the number of men to very few. Bill Powell will be enrolled in the Class of 1961, the first class to go there for the full four year course. He will start in July.

He is the son of Brig. Gen Will-

School Bond Issue In Sight; Board Puts Off J.C. Decision To Monday

The school board postponed action on the junior college district, Tuesday, until a special meeting they will hold July 1, to form the new board. Newly-elected Ted Fehring will replace J. O. Handley, who participated in his last meeting Tuesday night, and presided, in the absence of Chairman Gordon Campbell.

Mr. Campbell left a message, which School Superintendent Stuart Mitchell communicated to the board. If the board wished to take action on establishing a Junior College District with Monterey and Pacific Grove, it had his approval, provided Governor Knight had signed the bill which increases capital outlay costs for tuition students.

Mr. Mitchell said he had phoned Sacramento that day and as yet the governor had not signed the bill.

Mr. Handley pointed out that if the board waited until October to petition the state board to call an election there would still be time to get a junior college district tax on the county rolls for next year.

Mr. Mitchell asked the board if they wished him to arrange with Stanford to send a public relations team to get an opinion poll. Board Member Mrs. Julian von Meier said she didn't think it necessary.

Superintendent Mitchell's report on the costs of participating in a junior college district vs. continuing on a tuition basis (see last issue of the Pine Cone) was not read nor discussed. It came late on the agenda. The board had received advance copies of it and presumably had read it.

Most of the evening was taken up with the Carmel School District tentative budget, the recreation program budget, insurance, immediate maintenance needs for which there is insufficient money, and next year's new construction which will require a bond issue or an over-ride tax.

Tax rate for 1957-58 will be $1.81. This does not include a junior college district. This is six cents less than last year's, since the ten cent three-year tax, voted by the district to provide a sinking fund, has served its time. But the four-cent building bonds will be on this tax bill for the first time.

The tentative budget provides for expenditure of $762,039.00, an increase of $104,624, almost all of which goes for salary raises. Increase in revenues will be sufficient to meet greater expenditure.

Of course there are other things to do besides swim, as can be observed on the high school and three primary school playfields, and the gyms, and even in the classrooms: baseball and badminton, charcoal drawing and driftwood sculpture, sewing, body building, tennis, weaving and shop, and the "trompolator." Is that what you call it—the rig with a springy net that bounces you up to the ceiling? An instructor comes with it who teaches you to turn somersaults in the air. This activity is limited to girls 12 to 14 because the instructor owns the trompolator and takes it away with him. If the school district would buy one, it could be left in the gym, and you and I could bounce, too.

Here is the program, which is under the over-all direction of Recreation Director William G. Wakefield:

LITTLE LEAGUE BARBECUE SLATED FOR SUNDAY

To celebrate a highly successful season of Little League play, players, managers, officials, parents, and boosters will gather at the Monterey Fair Grounds Sunday afternoon from 2:00 to 3:30 for a chicken barbecue. Besides the barbecue there will be awards for the winning team and manager and a short program honoring the birthday of Little League in the United States. This year has been Carmel's first venture into Little League baseball play and the response from players, fans, and parents has been terrific. All of the complaints usually registered against Little League play have been missing as players and parents cooperated for excellent displays of good sportsmanship. Tickets for Sunday's barbecue may be secured from any league official or team manager. There will be no tickets sold at the barbecue.

With two games remaining to be played, it appears that Jack Miller's San Carlos Agency team has the 1957 Little League title sewed up. The San Carlos nine won the first-half and has a comfortable lead in the final round. Lew McCreery's Sport Shop aggregation is in the runner-up spot, followed by Pilot Market and Boys Town.

A look at the Little League statistics shows some pretty fair performers are wearing the Little League spangles. Five players in the league are hitting over .360 with Joe Sponsler's .454 average showing the way. Danny Holman, top pitcher in the league, is also belting the ball at a 400 clip. Bobby Bowman, .378; Dick Hubbell, .377; and David Harber, .365, follow the top two hitters in the home run department. Forest Cornwall, Pilot Market slugger, shows the way with six round-trippers. Charlie Konrad has hit for the circuit four times and David Harber has driven three out of the park.

With the close of a successful initial season, Carmel Little League officials are already laying plans for league expansion next year. Plans in the hopper include a six-team league and participation in the section playoffs.

JUNIOR LEGION AT HOLLISTER SATURDAY AFTERNOON

Carmel Legion's Post 512 Junior Legion baseball team travels to Hollister this Saturday afternoon to start second-half competition in district baseball play. The 512 lads received pretty rough treatment in the first-half, losing to Hollister, Monterey, and Salinas. In the first meeting with Hollister, the Post 69 boys clipped the local Legion, 7 to 2, as the Hollister pitcher tossed a one-hitter at the Carmel swingers. Carmel's pitching staff of Tim O'Shea and Cim Conway will attempt to equalize it this Saturday at the Hollister diamond. O'Shea and Conway got plenty of pitching practice at Salinas last Saturday where the Salinas Legion clubbed 512, 18 to 1. Salinas is undefeated in Legion play and look to be all over the winner in this district.

Post 512 will face Hollister with a starting lineup of Fred Bucher, catcher; Cim Conway, pitcher; Fred Nelson, 1st base; Andy Gray, 2nd base; Walt Helm, 3rd base; Pete Osborne, shortstop; Ron Faia, leftfield; Tim O'Shea, centerfield, and Mike Mitchell in rightfield.

SWIM MEET AT CARMEL HIGH POOL SATURDAY MORNING

Swim teams from the Carmel and Monterey Recreation Departments will splash it out at the Carmel High pool this Saturday morning in the first of a busy swim schedule at the local spa. Carmel swimmers from 8 to 18 are going through their paces each morning at 9:00 o'clock and the Village natators figure to give Monterey a real run for the top prize. This meet is open to both boys and girls and entries may be made at the pool on Saturday morning.

The Carmel swim team is also anticipating the 4th of July 20-30 Club meet at Pacific Grove where the top swimmers in Northern California compete for the cups and medals awarded by the 20-30 Club.

MERCHANT SOFTBALL TEAM HITS THE ROAD

Sporting a three-game win streak, Paul Artellan's Carmel Merchant softball club journeys to Escalon this Saturday night for a double-header with the San Joaquin Valley nine. Escalon is rated one of the best softball teams in the Valley and poses a real threat to the Merchant win streak.

Tuesday night in Pacific Grove league play, the Carmel nine edged the Seaside Merchants, 3 to 2, as Paul Ricketson struck out 14 Seaside swingers. The fast-improving righthander was sailing along with a one-hit shut-out until the final inning when Seaside erupted for a pair of runs on two walks and an infield miscue by the Merchants. Carmel team picked up the winning run in the sixth heat when Ricketson, Danielson, and Frey hit consecutive singles. Dick Weer was the leading sticker for the Merchants in this one, hitting two singles in three trips to the plate.

LARGER HOME FOR SALE OR TRADE

Here is an exceptional bargain—This Carmel Woods, 3-bedroom, 2-bath house would cost about $60,000 to replace today. It's about 5 years old, has many luxury features, including a built-in freezer and refrigerator in the kitchen; a built-in TV in the living room, a beautiful bar in the large family-dining room; large bedrooms, forced air heat, huge patios, one in brick, most elaborate electrical wiring. This house is absolutely underpriced at $37,500. The loan is $20,000 for 20 years. The owners need a small house, so you can either buy their house outright at a terrific saving, or maybe trade that house that you've outgrown, with either a large or small equity.

WATER

The Most Important Thing In Life

The basic need for life on earth is that water be available. And from this necessity was born the greatest single industry in this country—public water supply. Nothing short of a complete catastrophe can deprive the Monterey Peninsula of an ample supply of water. Although many other communities this summer will be faced with the possibility of a water shortage, the Peninsula does not have this anxiety.

Few communities are as fortunate in respect to the dependability of water supplies as those on the Monterey Peninsula. No price can be set on this wealth of water.

U. S. ARMY PHOTO.

Lt. Col. William G. White of Carmel is congratulated by Col. Charles Wesner, Fort Monroe, Virginia, Post Commander, after Col. White received a citation at a Fort Monroe Retreat Parade held in his honor. At the right is Mrs. White who will accompany her husband to Havana, Cuba, where he will assume command of Loyola Military Academy. He retired from the Army, recently, after 27 years of active and reserve Army and Marine duty. He won three Silver Stars and 10 Purple Hearts in two years.

He is the son of the late Rev. Willis G. White, founder of the Carmel Kite Festival, and was reared here.

Though he earned all his combat decorations in the Army he began his military career with the Marines, when he left San Jose State College to join the Marines in 1930. In 1937 he returned to civilian life but World War II brought him back to service in 1941, as an Army private. In 1942 he was accepted for officer candidate school and emerged an Army second lieutenant.

Landed in Normandy with the U.S. 83rd Division in June 1944, White, during the following month earned six of his 10 Purple Hearts in the short span of four days.

On July 4, fire from a burp gun caught him in the right chest. An hour later, shell fragments hit him in the right temple and cheek. The following day, he got a rifle bullet in his right forearm and the medics taped his arm to his side.

Meanwhile White, a battalion commander, continued fighting, and on July 6, he was wounded again, this time in the right shoulder by grenade fragments. That same day grenade fragments found their mark in his right leg. And on that day, too, he was captured by the Germans.

And Colonel White, weak and suffering from five wounds, not only managed to escape from his German captors; he led 12 other Americans to freedom with him.

"We came to rough terrain suddenly, where the guards appeared confused," White recounts, "so I started inching away and motioning other American prisoners to follow me. Twelve of the Americans and I managed to disappear down a gully before the Germans got wise."

So White escaped, and the following day, shell fragments crashed deep into his right forearm. He was sent to England to recuperate. In August 1944, he re-joined the 83rd Division in time to continue to Luxembourg and on to Germany where, in November 1944, he was wounded again and again sent to England to recuperate.

He returned to his division in March 1945 and fought with them again in Holland and in Germany until war's end.

Returning to the U.S. in 1945, he requested duty in the Pacific Theater. He was ordered to join the 87th Division and headed for Japan. In the meantime, the war ended, but White remained in Japan until July 1948.

Then came the Korean Conflict, and in September 1950 White was headed for another combat zone, where he volunteered for duty with the UN's Special Activities Group. Very shortly, he became operations officer for this special attack force comprised of American Army Raiders, Royal Marine Commandos and a battalion of South Koreans.

In January 1951, White was wounded at Chang-to, Korea. "My unit had been fighting for 30 hours straight," he said. "We killed over 600 Reds in that time and suffered only 36 casualties. I was that thirty-sixth casualty," he said ruefully, "and had to return stateside for hospitalization."

Back on active duty again in 1951, White volunteered for Ranger duty and was assigned to Fort Benning. "I couldn't qualify as an instructor without a parachutist badge," White said, "so I went to jump school first and earned my badge at the ripe old age of 41."

On completing his tour of service as an instructor for the Ranger Training Command, White was assigned as commander and training officer at Scholfield Barracks, Hawaii, where he served until 1954.

On his return to the United States, he requested duty with the Atlantic Amphibious Training Command at Little Creek, Va.; he was assigned there in January 1955 as training and senior logistics instructor of the Landing Forces Training Unit.

The regard this command has for this Army officer was evidenced this week when Marine Col. Walter Asmuth, Chief of Staff of the Landing Forces Training Unit and nine Marine members of his staff requested participation in a Fort Monroe Retreat Parade held in White's honor.

Lt. Col. White and his wife, the former Tina Faulkner of Kinston, N.C., have two children, William, Jr., 23 years, who lives in San Francisco and John, 18 years, a student at Baltimore Polytechnic Institute, Baltimore, Md. Both attended Carmel schools.

In addition to three Silver Stars for gallantry in action and his 10 Purple Hearts, Colonel White has also earned the Combat Infantry Badge twice, the Bronze Star in Combat three times, the Marine Good Conduct Medal, the Second Nicaraguan Campaign Medal, the U.S. Marine Expeditionary Medal, the Yangtze Campaign Medal, and the Reserve Medal.

Also, the European-African-Middle East Campaign Ribbon with five battle stars, the Pacific Theater Service Medal, the World War II Victory Medal, the pre-Pearl Harbor Service Medal, the Korean Service Medal with three battle stars, the Army of Occupation Ribbon for both Germany and Japan, the French Croix de Guerre with Silver Star, the Presidential Unit Citation, the Parachutists Badge, the Korean Unit Citation, the United Nations Service Medal and the National Defense Service Medal.

Sydney Star Writes Of George Gann's Lighter Hobby

George K. Gann of Pebble Beach is subject of an item printed in the Australian newspaper, Sydney Star. "If an elderly American hands any Aucklander a cigarette lighter as a gift today, there's no need for surprise," says the Star. "With 72 year old George K. Gann, passing through in the Mariposa today, it's a sort of hobby. 'Lighters fascinate me,' said Mr. Gann. 'I like to buy them, see how they work, then give them away.' At present he has six lighters with him. Most unusual is a Japanese lighter which plays a tune when he lights a cigarette."

"Mr. Gann also has 30 waistcoats in his ship's wardrobe—'They make me look younger.'"

"He spent years installing telephones and switchboards in America and other parts of the world. He claims to have given the idea in America of piping recorded music into offices and homes."

"Mr. Gann has been traveling constantly for the past 15 years, and the Mariposa is the 50th ship in which he has made a trip."

Mr. Gann is now in San Francisco, having completed his trip throughout the South Pacific on the new Matson Line passenger ship.

George K. Gann is the father of writer Ernest Gann. Also on board the Mariposa with the Ganns were Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Hanke of Carmel. They did not continue on to San Francisco, but stopped at Hawaii for the summer.

The Raymond Drapers Now Operate Mahar's

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond J. Draper (Jean Leidig) are the new owners of Mahar's, Ocean Avenue apparel shop, specializing in men's and women's sportswear.

Mrs. Draper is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Leidig of Carmel. The Leidigs have been Carmel residents since 1907. Robert Leidig served as Carmel's fire chief for a quarter of a century. He now is fire marshal, in charge of fire prevention.

Mr. Draper brings to his new enterprise an extensive executive and management background. For more than 14 years he was in the farming and brokerage businesses in Salinas. He has lived on the Monterey Peninsula for 22 years. He and his wife are residents of Carmel. Their home is located at San Antonio and Eighth Avenues where they live with their three children. Wendy Draper, who is 16, attends Carmel High. Her brother, Michael, 14, will enter high school this autumn, while Susan Draper, who is 9, goes to River School.

Raymond Draper was once a student at Monterey Union High School, as was his wife, Jean. Mrs. Draper later attended Dominican College at San Rafael.

"We plan to continue to operate Mahar's as a fine specialty shop with emphasis on imports and the best in sportswear from the domestic market," Mr. Draper said. "Later we expect to expand to some extent, increasing the variety of sportswear stocked, and possibly adding new lines. In the main, however, Mahar's will continue in the tradition already established."

The change of ownership and management was effected last week with Mr. and Mrs. Draper assuming operation on Monday, June 24. Mahar's is located on Ocean Avenue, between Dolores and San Carlos, with entrances on both Carmel's main street and from Las Tiendas Court.

Mr. and Mrs. William T. Mahar have operated the store which bears their name since 1937. Previously, William and Marjorie Mahar conducted a men's and women's sportswear specialty shop in Monterey, also known as Mahar's. In 1937 they purchased the present

WONDERFUL AUTOPIANO DEMONSTRATION

Eilers Music House, largest dealer on the coast, will demonstrate the wonderful autopiano at Leidig Brothers, Carmel-by-the Sea, on Wednesday, April 10, 1912.

A little late to attend, but it was fun looking at the printed circular Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rayne found when they started remodeling their home on Mountain View and Shafter Way. There's a picture of the autopiano at the top of the throwaway, too, only we used to call them "pianolas" when we were kids.

Ocean Avenue shop called at that time Immelman's. Four years later they gave the store the present name, "Mahar's," by which it has become known to thousands of visitors and virtually every Monterey Peninsula resident.

William and Marjorie Mahar plan to move to Honolulu later this summer where they expect a bit later to open a new business. "We wish to express our appreciation to those whose patronage and good will helped to make Mahar's a success," Mr. Mahar said. "Our twenty years of business association in Carmel has given both myself and Mrs. Mahar the greatest satisfaction, and our warmest thanks go to all who participated in that success."

In transferring both their residence and business interests to the Islands William and Marjorie will realize an ambition of many years standing.

Pasmore Trio To Play Father's Compositions Tues.

The program for All Saints' Parish Hall July 2 at 8:30 by the Pasmore Trio and their sister contralto vocalist Radiana is an un-hackneyed and varied one in keeping with the reputation of this famous family for digging up the less known. Mary Pasmore's expert art on the viola d'amour has made her famous not only on the West Coast and Honolulu, but in New York, the South and Europe, while the sisters, Zuzanne, pianist; and Dorothy, cellist, travelled for years over America receiving recognition for their ensemble.

In the present fortunate occasion that brings them together again in three concerts to memorialize their father, Henry Bickford Pasmore, the fine organist and composer of San Francisco, three of his compositions will be given as a finale, a Barcarolle for violin and piano, Madonna and Child for contralto, viola and piano, and The Message, for contralto and trio.

A Sonata by Ariosti, an Italian violinist and composer for the viola d'amour, who, when part-director of the Royal Academy of Music in London, dedicated his Cantatas and lessons for the viola d'amour to George II, will open the program, followed by a contemporary—Karuka-Zimbalist's Yamada and a Minuet by the baroque Milandre, played by Mary and Zuzanne Pasmore. The Dvorak Trio movements, called the Dumky, will engage all the players, followed by contemporary songs of Britten and Couper, and some Traditional American to be sung by Radiana Pasmore with Zuzanne at the piano.

The Pasmore sisters are well known to many local music-lovers, having been brought here once by Mrs. Grace Howden, then sharing a studio with Radiana in Berkeley. The Musical Art Club brought the Trio to Del Monte before it became the Naval School and later brought Mary Pasmore. Therefore, there should not be a vacant seat on July 2 at this free presentation of these fine musicians by Mary Lindsay-Oliver. A voluntary offering may be made to benefit the Monterey County Symphony Orchestra Fund.

Conservation On The March

A Weekly Column by
C. Edward Graves
Western Representative,
National Parks Association

HELL'S CANYON

On the front page of the Christian Science Monitor for June 12 appears an article on the recent sensational developments in regard to the granting of a fast tax write-off to the Idaho Power Company, at present building two small dams in Hell's Canyon on the Idaho-Oregon border. A large photograph of the canyon shows an immense gorge, nearly 8,000 feet deep, through which the ribbon of the Snake River winds in a manner that indicates the reason for its name. It is far deeper than Grand Canyon and is probably exceeded in depth only by the gorge at the northern end of Lake Chelan in Washington, some 1,500 feet of which is filled with water.

If Hell's Canyon had the color and the spectacular rock formations of Grand Canyon, it would be considered one of the seven wonders of the world, and a national park would long ago have been established there. In that case conservationists would have seen to it that no dam would ever have been constructed in it. The accident of geology and topography has changed its history and it is now the scene of a strange fight, in which conservation groups are working side by side with public power advocates to urge the construction of an immense "high level" dam, that, according to the Monitor, would be "one of the wonders of the world". Not a natural wonder, but a tribute to man's engineering genius that would tax the ability of every visiting journalist to describe.

Only once have I seen a letter in print gently chiding the conservationists for agreeing to the filling of this record-breaking chasm on the face of the earth with water. There is a simple reason for their attitude. They agree that more hydro-power is needed at the present time, though according to estimates of the Federal Power Commission the percentage of industrial power coming from falling water will rapidly decrease during the next 20 years, with only eight and a half percent coming from that source, fourteen and a half percent from atomic reactors, and the rest from fossil fuels. Nevertheless, in the interval, industrial power is needed and falling water is one of the obvious sources.

So we should get as many kilowatts as possible from a Federally-built high-level dam at Hell's Canyon, instead of allowing the continued construction of the two low-level dams on a "partnership" basis that would not provide so much power from this particular resource. If we utilize the full capacity of the river at this location, then there would be no need for smaller dams in the Idaho mountains on the Clearwater and Salmon Rivers, which now threaten some of the nation's finest scenic and wildlife resources.

The story of the fight against one of these, Bruce's Eddy, I have told in previous columns. Its fate is bound up with the Omnibus Rivers and Harbors Bill of which it is a part. Conservationists take great encouragement from the recent decision of the American Farm Bureau Federation to oppose the entire bill. Opposition of this kind, coupled with questioning on the financial aspects of the Hell's Canyon low-level dams, as reported in the Monitor, could conceivably win the battle. In the meantime, say the conservationists, let's vote for the "high-level" dam at Hell's Canyon.

The Time Has Come .

by Kippy Stuart

Sometimes I get thoroughly bored with myself, for this column begins to sound like the "broken record." I think I have gained a point by explaining some detail about planting and right away, along comes someone who has never heard of planting and starts arguing with me about procedure. That is, he (or she) argues. Not me. I'm too sympathetic with beginners and I hark back to my own days of learning. My greatest struggle is to teach gardeners how to prepare the soil for an expensive plant; my next struggle is to teach them how to water a newly installed garden. Last week I spent hours with a friend bringing an old and tired garden back to life. We installed some rare new pelargoniums that are really beauties. "Grand Slam" is a new deep rose pelargonium that knocks your eye out.

You know my old "saw": don't put a five dollar plant into a five cent hole. Well, we didn't. We bought steer manure, leaf mold, peat moss and all the trimmings. It took us hours to prepare this small bed. Gently I ran the hose close to the roots of the new plants, making small saucers at base to hold water. I went home well satisfied.

Yesterday, I strolled over to see how the new garden was doing. What I beheld made me want to scream. There stood this new home - owner - gardener, standing away off there behind the fence and shooting those young flowering plants smack in the face. The hose was turned full force and would have knocked me over had I gotten in that stream's way. All I could do in this instance, was to "gently advise" and go my way.

All that Will Rogers knew was what he read in the papers. All I know is book "larnin" and much experience. Frequently I hear from new home owners, "Oh, but Mrs. Smith down the street never sprays her fuchsias, why should I?" Well, I've just passed Mrs. Smith's flea-bitten garden, but I hold my fire. I suggest again that spraying is in order. I've got a silly so-and-so that I pull at times, just to prove "the exception to the rule."

Once upon a time, there was a little Mexican boy named Juan. His mother scorned all baby sanitation and all prescribed baby feeding. She brought Juan to an American child's clinic just to prove her point and to show off her remarkable child. Juan was eight years old. Said mama, in broken English. Now you just look here. Juan has never been fed baby foods. From the day he was born Juan has lived on beans and chili con carne. "Lookie, did you ever see such a fine chap?"

The scientific reply to this miracle is succinct.

"What happened to the other ten thousand Juans, treated in similar fashion?" Survival of the fittest!

FROM A LIBRARIAN'S NOTEBOOK

Ruth Galvin Thornburg, Librarian
There are several timely books included among the new ones this week. One of these is 100 Hours to Suez by Robert Henriques. This is an account of the five-day war during the course of which the Israeli forces drove the Egyptian Army out of the Sinai Peninsula. The author is a prominent writer in England today, and this book was done after a great deal of actual tramping over battle fields and talking to the Israeli commanders.

Not too long ago the Library of the University of California acquired articles and dispatches of Mark Twain from scrapbooks kept by his relatives. This material was written during the time when Twain was a reporter on the newspaper Territorial Enterprise in Virginia City, Nevada. He was a young man at the time, and part of the articles he wrote for the paper were straight reporting, and part were humorously handled and showed a promise of the writer he was to become. Henry Nash Smith has edited the material and added certain explanatory notes which give necessary background. The result is an interesting book published under the title Mark Twain of the Enterprise by the press of the University of California.

Another book in the you-can-see-it-now vein is The Day Christ Died by Jim Bishop, who scored a success in 1955 with his The Day Lincoln Was Shot. Books of this type take a more than average amount of research because the picture of the times and of the daily living in those times must be complete and authentic.

Clifford Hart tells us that successful retirement does not start at midnight on your sixty-fifth birthday. It starts with thinking years before. His new book entitled Retirement will help you to plan toward that momentous day.

Some people understand atoms, and some others are like the rest of us, they just tremble. Another book on the subject is by three scientists, G. O. Jones, J. Rotblat, and G. J. Whitrow. The title of the book is Atoms and the Universe. In the preface the authors tell us, "The aim of this book is to provide the general reader with a survey of modern physics extending from the smallest known objects to the largest."

David Schoenbrun is a foreign correspondent for CBS and is often seen on TV newscasts. His recent book is entitled As France Goes, and in it he not only does a superb job of reporting on present day conditions in France, but he also gives us the backgrounds which brought on these developments. His last chapter is entitled A Change of Life for France, and here he does a summation and a little predicting for the future. This is a good book.

There are six new novels, among them A Room on the Roof by Ruskin Bond. At the time he wrote this book Bond had attained the great age of seventeen years. The book is undoubtedly autobiographical. When he describes his hero you have only to turn to the back jacket to see how he looked because there is the photograph of young Ruskin Bond, and the description tallies exactly. But the thing about all this is that the book is very good. Here we have a young writer from whom we can expect great things. Read A Room on the Roof and wait a while for more from the talented young man.

ARSON AT BETTY GREEN'S STABLE

At 12:02 Tuesday night an alarm sent twenty-eight Carmel Volunteer firemen to Junipero and Fifth Streets. The Betty Green Stables, which have been closed for some time, were on fire. A small Christmas tree abandoned in the little room to the left of the entrance had been ignited. Firemen said it was obviously a set fire. The fire smoldered out, and did not have a chance to burn. In spite of the lateness of the hour, three trucks were immediately on hand. The stables could easily have been in flames if a fire ever ignited the wooden buildings. Agnes Stith at Joe's Taxi saw the smoke from across the street and phoned the fire department.

Gregory Millar Cuts Two Recordings For Fantasy Company

Gregory Millar, conductor for the past three years of the Monterey County Symphony, has just had released on Fantasy label (conducting the Little Symphony of San Francisco) his first two recordings: (1) Paul Hindemith's Concerto for Harp, Woodwinds and Orchestra, Kammermusik, op 24 No. 1 (1922) and Concerto for Trumpet, Basson and Orchestra; (2) for the first time on long play recordings, Nikos Skalkottas, Twelve Greek Dances, (the dances were played by the Monterey County Symphony Orchestra this last season).

Mr. Millar (Manousos) was born in North Saskatchewan of Greek and French Canadian parentage. He came to San Francisco at end of World War II to devote a career of conducting. Since then he has directed orchestras in San Francisco, Vancouver, B.C., St. Louis and New York. Mr. Millar was director of music at the St. Louis University from 1948-1951, returned to San Francisco to organize and conduct the Little Symphony of San Francisco; in 1954 he started as conductor of the Monterey County Symphony, dividing his time between San Francisco and the Monterey Peninsula area. As a result of the Rockefeller Grant award in 1955, Mr. Millar has been able to make an extended research of little symphony repertoire.

Mr. Millar has just returned from a conducting engagement at Vancouver, B.C., and is attending the conductors' workshop and conference of the American Symphony Orchestra League at Asilomar, where a reception preceding tonight's banquet will be given for work-shop and conference members by the host orchestra organization, the Monterey County Symphony.

Mr. Millar has lately not only been occupied with conducting out of state and cutting recordings, but preparing for the next season's concert series of the Monterey County Symphony Association whose orchestra and members consider it a great privilege to be able to call Gregory Millar their conductor. Advanced renewals of symphony memberships, stating preference of seats of 1957-58 season, is in progress.

ORGAN SOCIETY MEET

At the June meeting of the Hammond Organ Society, following officers were elected: C.W.O. Fred G. Lewis, president; Wm. B. Skowran, vice president; Miss Margaret McIntire, treasurer; Mrs. Ellen Purdy, recording secretary; Mrs. Caskey, corresponding secretary; Dr. B. J. Balcar, public relations.

The musicale opened with vocal solos of Carolyn Morris, graduate of the University of Denver and soloist at Fort Ord and Navy Post-graduate School, chapel. Her teacher, Mrs. Nancy Lewis Holman, followed by singing songs of Brahms and Bizet. Both were accompanied by Kenneth Wilson, Director of the Red Diamond Chorus at Fort Ord.

Mrs. Bernice Skowran then played on the Hammond Organ her solo selections which included J. S. Bach's Prelude and Fugue in D Minor and concluded by playing a

Music On The Peninsula

BY MARY LINDSAY-OLIVER

Surprising today is the good execution of music coming from the colleges, where twenty years ago few students, if any, had such opportunity to develop their execution. An excellent example of this was demonstrated last Wednesday by the San Francisco State College chamber group who played like veterans for the Carmel Musical Art Club's second event of the season. Mary Sheridan, violinist; James Matheson, oboist; Jeff Holm, cello; Robert Tefft, horn; John Graham, viola, and Adrian Sunshine, piano, delivered with enthusiasm a quintet sonata, trio and two quartets that delighted a much too small audience for so good a performance. The quite un-hackneyed works by Stölzel, Reincke, Stamitz and Stick demonstrated how unknown music of the earlier periods can, with its logical melodic intention and harmonic construction, which many composers today have failed to acquire or even comprehend, be interesting and compelling throughout. It was the best performance this writer has yet heard of those lately offered by the Musical Art Club, who aim to encourage young musicians, though they have formerly brought some fine professionals such as the Pasmore Trio and Mary Pasmore, violinist, who will be heard next Tuesday evening in the All Saints' Parish Hall. Meeting the college group one was impressed with their earnestness. Congratulations and refreshments followed the concert.

Hans Cohn, another young artist, was presented by Nancy Ness Bowman, his teacher for several years, in a comprehensive program of fine selections at All Saints' Parish Hall, prior to his departure to become a cantor in New York, and pursue further study. A large audience of friends greeted him, for besides his appearances here as a singer, Cohn has been known to many as the clever Chef of the Coq d'Or and at present of the Pine Inn. An affable, frank manner has added to his popularity, and all are wishing him well in his New York venture, which he expects to carry out for at least two years. His strongly vibrant baritone voice seems particularly suitable for a cantor and possibly opera, since the finesse of modulation necessary to the more sensitive concert programs is not so much, yet, in evidence, though his capacity for hard work and enthusiasm is bound, with opportunity, to take him far along toward professional achievement.

He has shown good development series of old favorites in a duet with Fred Lewis at the piano.

recently. His comprehensive delivery of compositions by Handel, Durante, Caldara, Purcell, Schubert, Schumann, Brahms, Strauss, Mendelssohn, Mozart and Verdi, besides songs by Fox, Dix and Gordon, lieder and art songs with two opera excerpts and three encores were climaxed with a stirring rendition of Ol' Man River. The Ballaro from The Marriage of Figaro the Schubert Aufentholt (substituted for The Erlking) as well as Purcell's Ye Subterranean Winds.

Strauss' Zueignung and the aria from Verdi's Simon Boccanegra were particularly successful in diction and delivery. He was supported by Kenneth Wilson at the piano. This young man from Fort Ord delivered, at the last moment with only one rehearsal, a fine comprehension and insight into the music, rare in most so-called "accompanying" which takes greater musicianship than that of the singer. He took the place of Marilyn Coe who was ill, and it made a good team. Following the concert, Mr. and Mrs. Bowman welcomed many in reception at their home where the artists and Mrs. Bowman received further congratulations.

Program Show at Town House

The current exhibition of paintings by Edda Heath Pappel at the Town House will be followed by a group of paintings by Marjory Pegram. These monthly exhibitions at the Town House were inaugurated several years ago and the paintings of Miss Pegram were the first shown.

Marjory Pegram has been a member of the Carmel Art Association for the past twenty-five years, exhibiting continually in their gallery. She is one of eleven children of the fifth generation American born and raised in New York City. She lived in France and Italy for five years, travelling extensively over Europe. Studied singing in Weisbaden, Germany, currently studying with Mary Lindsay-Oliver in Carmel. Her rich mezzo-soprano is heard in the choir of All Saints' Episcopal Church, Carmel. She sang in the Bach Festival for many years. She was always interested in painting as a child and her mother encouraged her art work. Each summer she studied at some art center, at Gloucester, Massachusetts, under Felicia Howell, at Old Lyme, Connecticut, at the Art Colony in Woodstock, N. Y., and at the Cooper Union Institute under the late John Twachtman. Miss Pegram also studied art and singing at the University of California in Berkeley, and has taken courses in painting under John Cunningham and the late Lee Randolph in Carmel.

The exhibition at Town House will open Tuesday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock with a tea and reception for "Marjory", to which all friends and neighbors are invited.

generosity of the Carmel Lions Club which furnished the funds and drive to get the job done. Next week, actual construction on the diamond will begin with grading, drainage, and top-soil application scheduled. Plans call for a professional type diamond with grass infield and outfield, cut-out base paths, a raised mound, and fences surrounding the field.

Since 1940, all the baseball at Carmel High School has been played on the football field which is rough and unsuited for good baseball. With the new diamond, it is within the realm of possibility that the Village will soon have a much-needed Babe Ruth league for youngsters in the 13-15 age group. The already well-established Little League, a Babe Ruth League, Junior Legion, and high school baseball should provide an opportunity for every baseball prospect to get some action.

VALLEY ART CLASSES

Yesterday Kay Rodgers started her Wednesday classes in portraits at the Carmel Valley Art, Inc. summer school. Tonight Mrs. Helen Matney begins her lessons in mosaics. Mrs. Dick Daymon will conduct art history classes and Mrs. Margaret Fogg will teach puppet making for children. The summer school opened officially on Monday with a lecture for everyone on driftwood conducted by Mrs. Helen Croze Snyder. Photography is taught on Wednesday mornings by Mrs. George Smith, while weaving is Helen V. Bennett's subject of instruction. Clarence Bates is teaching sculpture for adults.

L. Nora Harnden

Miss L. Nora Harnden died on Saturday in an Oakland rest home. She was born in Alameda in 1872. She had been in failing health for some time.

During World War I Miss Harnden was active in war work in Paris as a nurse. Twenty eight years ago she came to Carmel. Six years ago she moved to the Oakland home.

Her survivors are three sisters, Mrs. James Wilder of Honolulu, Mrs. Austin Sperry of Berkeley, Mrs. Earl Lewis of Berkeley; a brother, Robert Harnden of Philadelphia; a niece in Pacific Grove, Mollie Gibbons, and several other nieces and nephews.

Private funeral services were held Monday at the Truman Mortuary in Oakland.

MISS LARSON SPEAKER FOR SCIENCE GROUP IN EMPORIA

Miss Enid A. Larson returned this week from a trip to Kansas where she attended the annual meeting of The American Society of Mammalogists at the University of Kansas. She visited Robinson Farm, the University's Natural Area, where extensive research in natural history is progressing. She was invited to speak before a Science Institute at State Teachers College at Emporia. This Institute has been organized under funds from the National Science Foundation in an effort to give aid and assistance to teachers of science. The director of this Institute had provided each teacher with a copy of the recent article about the Carmel High School's Biology program which appeared in the April issue of the Reader's Digest.

Later, Miss Larson visited at the home of Mrs. Viola Knoche Davidson, in Paola, Kansas. Mrs. Davidson a former teacher at Carmel High School, sent greetings to her many friends and former students.

Bill Powell Wins Appointment To Air Force Academy

iam D. Powell who was a casualty of World War II, serving on Gen. Stilwell's staff in the China, Burma, India Theatre as G-1 on the staff.

Gen. and Mrs. Powell moved to Carmel when Bill was four. Bill Powell, Jr. used to sell Pine Cones in front of the post office. Later he delivered the Herald and he used to tell all of his neighbors that he would some day go to West Point. He was just reminiscing about this last week, and wondered if his neighbors would remember that. Now that the new academy is functioning his ambition has changed from West Point to serving the Air Force.

During this month he has spent his leisure time working on automobiles. He also likes to tinker with airplane engines.

When Senator Kuchel had filled his quota of appointments to the Academy in 1956 and Bill was unable to enter, Bill enrolled at California Polytechnic Institute and majored in Industrial Engineering. He regrets that he can't combine both courses, but is anxious to begin his new career next week with the Air Force.

He and his two sisters went to Sunset School, Mission School and Carmel High School. Bill won letters in football, golf, track and baseball. He was active in Boy Scouts, and always had an interest in mechanical things as well as sports.

His sister Betty is distinguished in science. She has a Ph. D. in physiology from the University of California, and has written scientific tures, because of increased assessed valuation, and more state contribution because of increased enrollment.

Immediately needed repairs to buildings and improvement of playfields will cost $131,196, Mr. Mitchell estimated. Since there is not that much money available (the tax rate is the maximum the board can set) the board authorized him to go ahead with a new roof for Sunset, enlarging and equipping the science room at the high school, and bring up to lighting standards several rooms at Sunset. The rest of the list he is to arrange in order of urgency for the board to consider at its next meeting.

They also instructed him to proceed with completing the baseball diamond at the high school. Total job will cost $15,237.25. Big item, top soil for the turf, was estimated at $7,250.00. Board Member Glenn Leidig suggested that cost might be reduced by stripping the top soil off the Valley School site and the board agreed.

Among the items for which the district will be asked to vote a bond issue or a 20 cent over-ride tax are: purchase of .45 acres at the Valley site, $112,700; ten more classrooms at River School ($20,000 per room); more classrooms at high school, more land for playgrounds at Woods, more classrooms; extensive revision of Sunset, site purchase of improved property across the street, more classrooms.

publications in cooperation with the University of Rome, Italy. Her research is in process in Stockton where she lives with her attorney husband, Robert Barbour.

His eldest sister is Rosemary, wife of Dr. Dudley A. Robnett, now practicing in Walnut Creek.

Bill is 20 years old. In 1955 after graduation from Carmel High School, Bill went to the Col. Millard School in preparation for his Air Force appointment. When he had to wait another year, he went to Cal. Poly, and now he is ready to launch his career as a cadet. His father served for twenty eight years. He wants to do as well.

Flavins Home

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Flavin returned from Ireland and England after living there for over a year. They got back on Thursday.

Sara Cummings

Sara Victoria Cummings died yesterday in a local hospital after a brief illness. Mrs. Cummings was born at Doud Creek on the coast road south of Carmel on August 27, 1874. Her father, John Sousa, was a pioneer of the coast area between Carmel and Big Sur, and she spent her youth in this region.

After her marriage to the late Joseph Cummings, they went to San Francisco where they made their home until twelve years ago. Her husband died in 1950. Mrs. Cummings was a member of Carmel Mission parish.

Her survivors are her son, Leo

Joseph Cummings, who shared his home with her the past twelve years; a sister, Mrs. Steven Patterson of Carmel; several nieces and nephews.

Rosary will be recited tonight at 7:00 o'clock in the evening in the Dorney and Farlinger Memorial Chapel. Requiem Mass will be celebrated tomorrow at 9:30 o'clock in the morning. Burial will take place in the Monterey Catholic Cemetery.
